

Let's end fly-tipping together

The Alton Estate needs your help!

The council shares the concern of residents about the level of fly tipping on your estate. This spoils the environment, making the surroundings look untidy and neglected.

Fly tipping is anti-social behaviour and nuisance by a small minority of residents and visitors that spoils the environment for everyone. While every effort is made to clear bulk refuse promptly, the problem can only be solved by a close partnership between the council and its residents. The cost of removing bulk refuse is recovered from residents through rents and service charges.

We need your help to let us know the details of residents who dump furniture, addresses of properties where builders leave their rubbish or students discard their belongings when they move on.
